

A Message From the CEO

Waheguru ji Ka Khalsa, Waheguru ji Ki Fateh!

The seeds that got planted 26 years ago have created deep roots in our global sangat. Roots that reach from South America to Australia, from the United Arab Emirates to Japan, from Canada to India – and everywhere in between.

And – all of this happened because of your generous support over the years.

With Gurumustuk Singh's departure, one chapter for SikhNet has closed but another one has just begun. As SikhNet's Interim Executive Director, I am committed to protecting and nurturing the precious work that SikhNet does every day.

Today, nearly one million people visit SikhNet each month through our website and apps. Our plan is to double our reach within the next 3-5 years, as we develop more original content and share more avenues for Sikh authors, musicians and artists to express themselves through this platform. With your continued support, SikhNet will keep and expand its ranking as one of the leading online sources of Sikh inspiration for everyday life.

Please peruse our Annual Report to see what you have helped make happen!

Thank you for all you have done to keep SikhNet growing and thriving for 26 years. With the grace and blessings of the Guru, YOU help make our work possible.

Ek Ong Kaar Khalsa Michaud

Over the years, SikhNet has grown deep roots in the world because of YOUR seva, YOUR Dasvandh, YOUR donations!
Please help us reach our fundraising goal this year, as we continue the legacy and take SikhNet to new heights.

GURBANI MEDIA CENTER

Your Donations at Work

Fund the ongoing upkeep, maintenance and improvement of the Gurbani Media Center.

Lives touched: 1.7 million

People tune in to the GMC every year, including Curated content, SikhNet Radio, podcasts and Katha for over 10 million sessions.

In 2022 over 50,000 people downloaded the GMC app. 2 million people used the website version of the GMC (Approx 330,000 people per month). 17 Million Gurbani audio tracks were played by our Sangat.

Many of you write to us and tell us how important the Gurbani Media Center is to your life. One user wrote and said

"There is no local sangat, no Gurdwara, no people like me where I live. This (GMC) is the primary source of my media for my spiritual life."

For nearly two decades, SikhNet has quietly focused on creating one of the largest online collections of Gurbani Kirtan, Nitnem, Akhand Paths, mantra and katha in the world. It takes a team of people to maintain this service for the global community. We do this without charging for use of the Gurbani Media Center and without selling any advertising.

Your donations make this possible.

Audience Served

In 2022, 2 million people searched for Gurbani Kirtan online and landed on the SikhNet Gurbani Media Center. The GMC currently has nearly 37,000 tracks yet there were 17 million “plays” of those tracks this year. Our Gurbani Media Center App continues to grow, with over 50,000 unique downloads of the app this year alone.

Diamonds of Eternity: 6 Volume Series

One of our most important accomplishments this year was the publication of an archival series titled Diamonds of Eternity. The project began when we discovered a box of old cassette tapes. Some of these tapes dated back to the 1970's and had live recordings of ragis who are no longer on the earthly plane.

Our Content Manager, Jagjeevan Singh, went through these tapes and selected the artists and tracks for this series. He digitized and re-mastered the live recordings. The result was a beautiful, precious and unique series of albums that SikhNet released over a six month period.

The artists featured in the Diamonds of Eternity series include:

- Volume 1: Bhai Avtar Singh and Bhai Gurcharan Singh
- Volume 2: Bhai Gurmail Singh (Amritsar)
- Volume 3: Bhai Surjit Singh (Amritsar)
- Volume 4: Bhai Harbans Singh
- Volume 5: Bhai Sadhu Singh
- Volume 6: Bhai Baldev Singh

Tens of thousands of people have enjoyed these “new” old recordings to date. Because of the nature of the Gurbani Media Center, people will have access to these recordings for many years to come.

If you have not had a chance to listen to these albums, please take some time to do so. They are special gems that will soothe your mind and uplift your spirit.

Listen to them all here.

You can also enjoy a few tracks from these albums as Gurbani Music Videos.

SikhNet does not sell these albums. Nor are we paid by anyone to make them. This work is made possible only through your incredibly generous support.

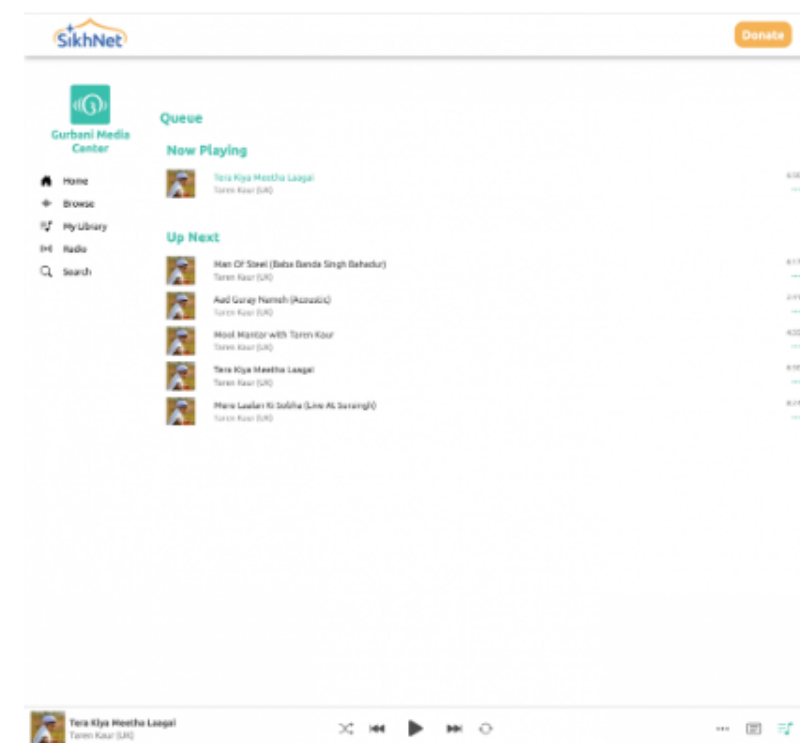

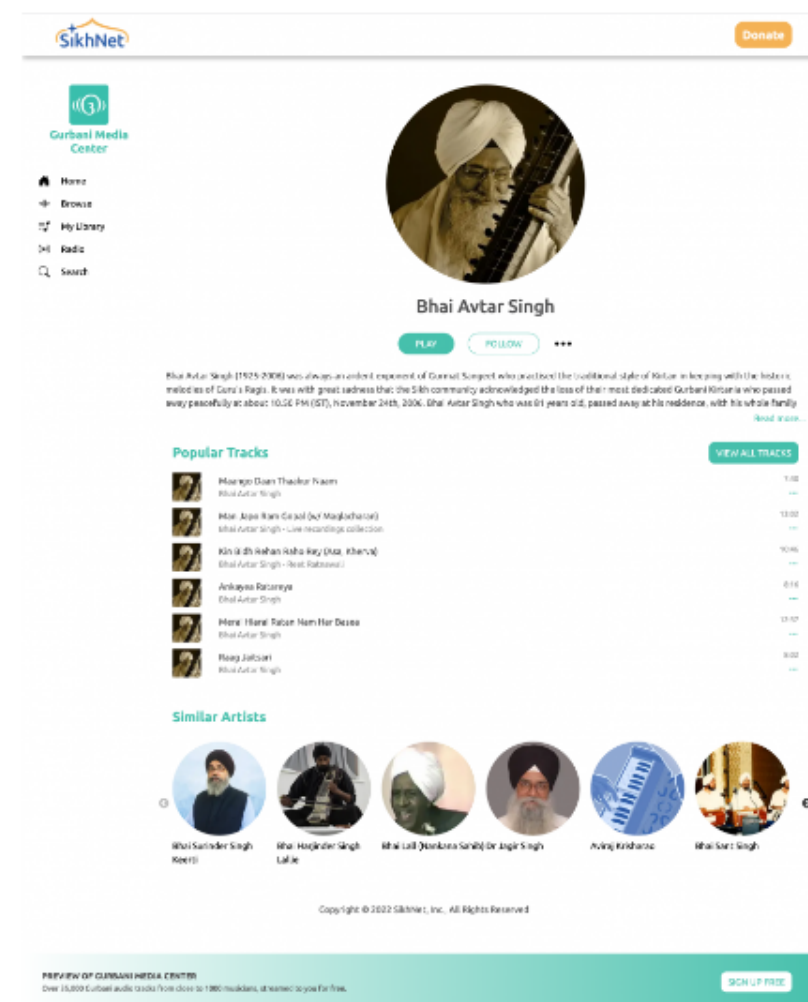

play.sikhnet.com — coming February of 2023

In addition to producing the Diamonds of Eternity series, this year our team was hard at work on the next incarnation of the Gurbani Media Center: play.sikhnet.com.

What is play.sikhnet.com? It's a new platform for the Gurbani Media Center guaranteed to be:

1. Faster
2. More streamlined and attractive
3. More supportive of the artists
4. More interactive than ever before

We won't be ready to unveil this next version of the Gurbani Media Center until early 2023. But here is a sneak preview.

Faster

You can expect a more responsive system when it comes to loading and playing audio tracks.

More Streamlined & Attractive

Our new user interface will be a joy to interact with online.

More Supportive of the Artists

When kirtanyees play in Gurdwara, they never ask for anything except the Guru's blessing. Yet sometimes members of the sangat will make donations directly to the ragis to support their beautiful seva.

Our next incarnation of the GMC takes this approach and adapts it for an online environment. Artists will have a chance to share more information about themselves through their artist pages – whether it be social media links or a link to their patreon account where sangat can donate directly to them, helping to support their music.

In this day and age when streaming music is everywhere, it's important for us at SikhNet to give a way for the artists to connect with and be supported by the people who listen to their music. We hope this model will inspire more artists to share their kirtan through the Gurbani Media Center.

More Interactive Than Ever Before

You have told us for years some of the features that we need to add to the Gurbani Media Center and WE LISTENED. Starting in February and continuing throughout 2023, we will add exciting new features to the Gurbani Media Center based on your requests – such as sharing artists and albums with others, searching by any line in a shabad, and synching playlists and search history across multiple devices.

Developing new features and adding them to the Gurbani Media Center takes a lot of time. We have a small development team who do heroic work to keep these services functioning smoothly 24 hours a day, 7 days a week, 365 days a year. Yet because of your generous and continued support, SikhNet can take the time to invest in the future of these services. To be strategic and build the next incarnation of the Gurbani Media Center – something that can serve the future generations.

The last couple of years have been very difficult. COVID-19 has created a lot of personal loss in many people's lives. The turmoil of global political and economic affairs have also created a lot of challenges.

Grief is a real and present companion for so many today.

In order to give people tools to cope with grief, SikhNet introduced a special, self-paced, six part series titled Normalizing Grief with Sikh Chaplain, AmarAtma Singh Khalsa.

Normalizing Grief

A Mini-series on Coping with Loss

Watch on  YouTube

AmarAtma Singh is a Board Certified Chaplain, Ordained Sikh Dharma Minister and Grief Coach. He created this mini-series especially for SikhNet. The online course is divided into 6 episodes, each one dedicated to a key topic — from our attitude to emotion as an individual and society, to the many myths that pervade our culture with regards to grief and how those myths or beliefs can actually limit our ability or the ability of others to support us in the process.

The aim of this mini-series is to give people the opportunity to look at grief from an empowered perspective. In this way, as people face loss now or in the future, they will feel better equipped to go through the grief process with loving care.

Grief is something that every person will experience multiple times in their lives. Online courses like this, which provide emotional tools rooted in an understanding of Gurbani, serve the global community for years to come.

What our students are saying...

Honestly, I received my first exposure to the notion of “grief” as anything more than a word. It’s like I’ve been driving aimlessly and someone very kindly and calmly offered me a map. I deeply appreciated the presenter’s multi-facted multi-disciplinary knowledge and facility, and the incredibly basic and pragmatic nature of the information.

I had never thought about how not addressing loss of grief can turn into addictions and mental health over time, so that was new learning for me and I feel that I am just scratching the surface when it comes to learning about the process of grieving.

Over 1 Million People from 50+ countries read the articles and news stories that SikhNet shares on a regular basis.

From its inception, SikhNet has focused on creating a safe, inclusive online space for people to experience the Guru's wisdom in ways that make their everyday lives better.

As the rules of the Internet continue to change, SikhNet must keep evolving our model. Our goal is to be viewed as the most authoritative online source for original content on the Sikh way of life.

Inspirational Articles

This year, we made a decision to focus on original articles. From this point forward, new articles published on SikhNet will mainly be available only on SikhNet. Our wonderful volunteer contributors focus on Sikh history, philosophy, art and current events.

We are especially grateful that Sardar Tarlochan Singh, Ex-M.P. and Former Chairman of The National Commission Minorities of India, contributed columns to SikhNet this year. His writing offers a fascinating first-person account of historical events, as they unfolded.

An example:
